A Touch of Pity.

Forth they set at early morn,

Happy in their hope,

Adown the path and through the corn

And by a grassy slope;

Then o'er a stretch of clean sea-sand,

And reached a slippery pier;

And the brother raised his hand,

And said, "We'll cast lines here."

And, oh, the tremor of her heart

As tackle straight he set!

She deemed her brother had more art

Than any angler yet.

And at each bite she felt a glow

Of pride, that made her speak

In louder tones; there came a flow

Of blood to either cheek.

At last a catch! the silvery sides

Came twinkling o'er the pier—

She shrieked with joy; but soon the

Of joy were changed to fear.

As full she looked upon the thing

That writhed before her eyes,

The heart felt for its suffering,

She burst in tears and sighs!

And all her day was clouded dim

With thoughts she could not speak;

The voice was low; she stood by him,

But pale was now her cheek.

Her first glimpse of the ill and pain

That haunts the world, that day,

Disturbed her heart, and ne'er again

Will she so gladly play.

Ah, little maid, that mystery

O'ershadowed all our work,

And unto many, as to thee,

Has turned the bright to dark.

110 In the Shade.

Oh, for a lodge in the garden of cucumbers!

Oh, for an iceberg or two at control!

Oh, for a vale which at midday the dew cumburs!

Oh, for a pleasure trip up to the Pole;

Oh, for a little one-story thermometer,

With nothing but zeros all ranged in a row!

Oh, for a big double-barreled hydrometer,

To measure this moisture that rolls from my brow!

Oh, that this cold world were twenty times colder!

(That's irony red-hot it seemeth to me!)

Oh, for a turn of its dreaded cold shoulder!

Oh, what a comfort an ague would be!

Oh, for a groto to typify heaven,

Scooped in a rock under cataract vast!

Oh, for a Winter of discontent even,

Oh, for wet blankets judiciously cast!

Oh, for a soda fount spouting up boldly

From every hot lamp-post against the hot sky!

Oh, for a proud maiden to look on me coldly,

Freezing my soul with a glance of her eye!

ARIZONA ITEMS.

Miner says: During the present month Yavapai county has been blessed with an abundance of moisture.

More rain has fallen within the last 25 days than during the preceding two years.

The pure, silvery waters that meandered down nearly every canyon on our pine-clad mountains during the early days in this Territory, had entirely disappeared; the moisture had departed from the earth, and grass ceased to grow and furnish a velvety garb for the surrounding hills and valleys.

Placer miners were compelled to throw aside sluice-boxes, shovels, and picks, and turn their attention to some other vocation.

Quartz mills, that were constructed by enterprising citizens, at great expense, and in many instances taking their all, have been idle for the want of water, and mining in its various branches greatly retarded.

Hundreds of persons who came to the Territory for the purpose of making homes, found the country dried up, and have passed on to some other locality.

Valuable and productive farms, in ordinary seasons have been abandoned and one of the safest, most profitable and honorable pursuits crippled.

Stock raising has been an up-hill business during all this dry time.

At last relief has come to our doors. Mining in placers and quartz will once more revive and surpass anything heretofore known in Yavapai.

The mountain streams will once more run as of old, grass will spring up and cover thickly the bleached and barren hills of a few weeks past, and stock of all kinds will fairly laugh at the great fast before them.

Dry ranches will be above par, corn and potatoes will be plentiful, hay sufficient to supply the demand, and the general result will be peace and plenty for all.

The vote cast by the different Counties of Arizona at the last election is thus given by the Enterprise:

Mohave county, 355; Pinal county, 383; Maricopa county, 394; Yuma county, 192; Pima county, 726; Yavapai county, 1,452. Total 3,542.
